Until

at last,

there came
a KNIGHT

who drew his GOLDEN sword and plunged it into the belly of the great beast.

Until, at last,
there came
a KNIGHT who drew his GOLDEN sword and plunged it into the belly of the great beast. And FIRE spilled forth as if a mighty blast furnace
had been split in two.

Though the Knight was LOST, he had done
the deed no other had.

A great SHADOW
had been lifted
from the land.

These were the days of
DRAGONS

Winged creatures
which flew about the countryside
and spewed forth fire with the stench of brimstone.

They were stronger than any man.
Their appetite for destruction
knew no bounds.

Untamed, it was thought
they would rule the lands
until the end of time.

Word spread quickly--

-- across the countryside
that a man, a mere MORTAL,
had done the impossible.
This led to talk of MAGICKS and a SWORD that had no SOUL.

LEGENDS grew and stories told,
each further from the truth.

The Knight had no wizardry
to accompany the deed.
It was his pureness of heart that won the day.

For if you look into
The Eye of the Dragon,

BEWARE!

Lest, the Dragon
look back into thee.

MALIKAL?

DOES IT STILL HURT?

IT DOES.

THAT'S TO BE EXPECTED.

THEN,
WHY DID YOU ASK?

GRACE...?

THEY SAID YOU WERE...
GONE.

PEOPLE WILL SAY WHAT THEY THEMSELVES WANT TO HEAR.

IT'S UP TO YOU/ WHETHER OR NOT TO LISTEN.
